Murimi drove slowly down the Government road eager to attend the celebration.

Everyone in the car was quiet, thinking about the people who had sacrificed their lives so that Harry Thuku, the freedom fighter could be set free. Little Naiku was fascinated by Nyanjiru, the woman who had led men, women and children in fighting for freedom, so long ago.

"Papa," she called her father, "when we gain independence tonight and the white men are gone, who shall lead us then?"

"Ah, a good question, my child," Murimi replied, "we shall have our own government. A government of Kenyans and by Kenyans. We shall elect out own leaders."

Naiku asked again, "Will 'mamas' lead us too?"

"No!" Njoroge shouted. "This will be a government of black men. Our government."

"Why men?" Naiku cried angrily.

"When did you ever hear of a black 'mama' leading men?" Njoroge asked.

"Mama Nyanjiru was a leader of men," Naiku protested.

"You are right, Naiku," said grandpa.

"Even in the forest where we fought the white man, women fought just as bravely. General Muthoni was one of the bravest warriors I ever met – braver than most men I know. Only a fool or a coward says that a woman cannot lead. Of course, they can and will lead."

At that moment, a car with a white driver overtook them and Njoroge shouted, "Settler, settler go home!" Murimi was furios.

“Njoroge!” he said, “how dare you misbehave like that? You will have to answer for it when we get home!”

“Does independence day make you lose your manners? That man is a grown up, older than even your father,” added grandpa.

“We did not fight the white men for our independence so that our children can behave like them. You were never brought up to abuse people,” Murimi said angrily. Njoroge was quiet for a long time. He thought long and hard about his grandpa’s words. He was sorry for the way he had acted.

Many people all over the world still smoke although it is common knowledge that smoking is dangerous to health. This is because the nicotine found in cigarettes has been proven to be addictive. Many young people get introduced to this habit through peer pressure, by aping their parents of the celebrities they watch on TV advertisements.

Today, smokers give various reasons for maintaining this habit. They say cigarretes are useful stimulants and that thy give the smokers something to do with their hands. Perhaps the most important cause for the increase in smoking is that is provides shared experience among the peer group and this continues even after it becomes a settled habit. At what point it actually becomes a habit difficult to shake off, is not possible to tell.

The aggressive campaign through advertisements and advocacy by manufacturers has made things worse. Manufacturers argue that smoking provides employment through tobacco farming, manufacturing industries and contributes directly to the economy through payment of taxes. However, the government spends three times as much for the treatment of smoking related ailments and on rehabilitation of smokers.

The arguments against smoking are very valid. It can at times be very expensive for smokers and has no social advantage. The smoke from smokers is harmful and offensive to those around them (secondary smokers). It also interferes with teamwork since those who smoke keep excusing themselves to go and smoke. We know that tobacco stains the hands of smokers and makes the smokers have bad breath. In addition, it shortens one's breath, making it difficult for one to participate in activities which demand a lot of energy, such as athletics. But these are minor objections when we consider the damage it can do to one's health. There is enough evidence that smoking causes bronchitis and heart diseases, both of which can be fatal.
