COMPREHENSION

1. Read the passage below and the questions after it

Kenya's wealth management industry is underdeveloped as majority of the super rich prefer to use foreign private firms and hold their money outside the country.

A newly released report by New World Wealth says the high-net-worth individuals in Kenya bank their money in foreign banks.

"The majority of wealthy Kenyans use foreign private banks, which hold their money abroad. As a result, the local private banking industry is totally underdeveloped." The report says.

About 50% of these high net-worth individuals are elite with political connections, and are estimated to have $10 billion (Sh6860 million) banked abroad-constituting 30% of the national wealth. The money is banked mostly in private banks in UK, Switzerland, Cyprus and channel Islands.

According to the London based New World Wealth, a large proportion of the local wealth was in 2013 held in off shore accounts.

However, Kenya's wealth management systems is set to benefit from strong growth on wealth in other East Africa countries, which have less developed banking systems and are likely to opt for Kenyan banks.

"Kenya's wealth management industry is likely to expand over the forecast period as more high-net-worth individuals are created and as banks begin to set up in the country".

The report adds that the current crackdown on the offshore centres might force super rich Kenyans to repatriate their wealth into the country-further boosting the local wealth management of funds with the objective of stopping funding of terrorist networks.

Among the foreign private banks in Kenya are Barclays of UK and Saniam of South Africa. Others that have expressed interest of setting up in the country are credit Suisse and UBS of Switzerland, RMB and Standard of South Africa.

In Kenya, the wealth management service providers are dry Associates, Global Eye, In touch Capital, Inter-Alliance International and private Wealth.

Most wealthy families in developed countries have their assets and funds under managers, but there are no known family offices in Kenya. The report says that this segment is expected to grow as more millionaire.

Family offices are involved in management of household staff, property management, philanthropy co-ordination, family education, inter-generational transfer and legal and tax services apart from the usual investment services.

The report says there are 2,700 single families holding of $1.7 trillion and 2,300 multifamily offices holding $800 billion in the world-making it a big business.

The report says the low-tier millionaires tend to hold cash and real estate billionaires tend to invest in commodities and alternative assets as hedge funds while affluent millionaires are likely to invest in fixed income and equity.

2. Read the following extract and answer the questions that follow.

Seymour: (Springing to his feet with clenched fists) That cannot be possible. Nobody can write that kind of thing about me in this world!

Harvester: (Looking at Ted and Seymour) Copies of indisputable documentary evidence to that effect were all over today's newspapers and are being shared in all media platforms.

Seymour: (Resuming his seat and swearing with trembling voice) Those are fake documents! These are all barefaced falsehoods! And I can assure you one thing: Those behind the allegations now have their appointment with fate! Certainly!

Ted: (Sitting properly and looking up for the first time) Supply of air? I am beginning to think this is serious. Could we end up in Baneta Express Prison?

Harvester: (Turning pages of his note book) But that is only one of the allegations, there are many more, including drug trafficking, grabbing of public land, inflation of the cost of municipal projects, use of proxies to secure municipal tenders, undertaking shoddy public works, murder and gang warfare. The

is very detailed on the people and companies involved.

Mossi: There is a lot of personal information on municipal leaders on that evil thing too; including lifestyles of individual municipal officials, where they live, the kind of houses they live in, their businesses, the vehicles they own, other properties in their possession, when the properties were acquired, and a lot of other personal details I don't want to mention here. (Looking at Bembe)

There was a lot of talk yesterday on the Madingo Golf Club, with everyone Wondering where you got the money to put it up.

Bembe: (Sitting up with an expression of horror on his face) The Madingo Golf Club? No!

I have always been very discreet about my private affairs! How did they get the Information it is mine?

Mossi: You see, there is hardly anything on earth you can do without somebody knowing About it. You should also remember that those we regard as our friends are Sometimes wolves in sheep's clothing. And they may have a lot of information About us, which could be damaging!

Bembe: This might be our worst nightmare!

Mossi: What worries me most is the recent formation of a lobby group, an amorphous virtual group, comprising mostly of lawyers, calling itself The Samaritan. It is calling upon the people to volunteer as witnesses and help in the prosecution of those involved in corruption and abuse of office in the Municipality. They are also planning to petition the Local Government Minister, the Prime Minister, and the Chief Justice to take action. The situation is not pretty at all.

Ted: (Looking at Justice Jaden) Can such online allegations form a strong basis for prosecution and conviction?

Jaden: (Adjusting his eyeglasses) Yes, they can; provided there are valid documents supporting the allegations.

Bembe: (Throwing his hands in the air) I think we have no choice other than ban that thing within Maracas Municipality! The Municipal Council needs to pass a by-law to that effect urgently. I will enforce it immediately!

Jaden: (Adjusting his eyeglasses and then his tie) I think we need to be careful and strategic. On what basis do you ban it? And how can you police the use of mobile phones to ensure the ban is effective?

Seymour: We can think creatively about that. For example, we can claim that municipal authorities are concerned that suspect Apps, particularly spy Apps, are finding their way into our municipality. This may lead to theft of confidential information such as bank account details. We can also cite issues of cyberbullying and the sharing of pornographic materials in schools

3. Read the Oral Narrative below and answer the questions that follow.

AN OLD WOMAN AND HER DEFORMED SON

There was an old woman whose children died in infancy and only a deformed boy survived to grow into adulthood. The boy was a hunchback.

Although the old woman loved this hunchback son of hers, she was secretly ashamed of his physical appearance. She was ashamed that each day she was on the lookout of visitors who might come around just to make fun of him. To keep him away from the public eye, she used to confine him in a drum most of the time. So, right from his childhood, the boy grew up in a drum. He was taken out only a few times during the day when the old woman was sure that there were no intruders around. When the boy attained circumcision age, he was duly circumcised. After circumcision he said to the old woman, “mother, I now want a wife, can you please find me a girl to marry!” “Yes, my son,” said the old woman. I will try. I am indeed very pleased to learn that you are already thinking of a wife.”

By and by, the old woman went to look for a suitable girl to marry her son. She approached a pretty girl and asked her whether she would be interested in marrying her son and the girl promised to think about it. Without disclosing her son’s physical defects to the girl, the old woman set about wooing her intensively. She brought all sorts of gifts to her mother, helped the girl to collect firewood and even helped her with work in the shamba. Reluctantly the girl gave in and there upon requested the old woman to make the necessary arrangements so that she would meet the future husband. The old woman cunningly suggested that the girl should accompany her to her house where she would be able to meet the boy.

The old woman lived a long way from the girl’s village. On the day when the girl decided to visit her prospective bridegroom, she walked and walked until the sun set. It was a very long journey indeed. When she eventually arrived, the old woman pretended that the young man was around and he would appear shortly. The girl waited and waited but the boy did not appear at all. At bedtime, the girl was told that the boy was already in bed sleeping. She was shown a separate place to sleep, and, thus no opportunity to either see or talk to the boy as would have been expected of people who were planning to live together.

Very early in the morning the girl asked the woman, “Please, where is the boy you want me to marry? And the woman replied, “My son woke up early in the morning and went to work in a different village yonder so that he can earn something for your bride price.” Everything was around the house. The old woman and the girl went to cultivate in a banana grove. While they were away, the boy jumped out of the drum, busied himself about his house with the little chores singing:

KhanenuyaMunju, mwange, Khanenuyemunjumwange
Mkhasinakikhalimisilu, majikukuombelesyamusechakacha
Khucuma, abele khuchumanachasina?
Menyile, mukhang’oma, kurumbakulikhumukongo
(Let me busy myself in my house. Aren’t women foolish?
Mother fooled her,

“Your husband has gone to work,” How could I have gone to work? I just live in my little drum because I have a hunchback”)

The girl heard the boy’s singing but it was so faint that she would neither comprehend the meaning of the song nor even make out as to which direction the sound came from. However, out of curiosity she stopped from time to time and listened. This went on for several days until she started to guess the meaning of the words in the song. On getting the message home she was quite disturbed. Her suspicion was strengthened by the fact each morning they left for the shamba without sweeping or washing utensils but on their return they found everything tidy about the house. One day she deceived the old woman by telling her that she was going to attend to a call of nature while in fact her intention was to discover exactly what was going on in the house. No sooner had she disappeared behind the bushes than she tiptoed to the house and stood listening keenly at the door. She got really upset with the boy's derogatory song. She pondered with herself, "So this is my husband to be? A hunchback confined to a drum? No wonder the old woman deceived me the way she did. What girl in proper sense could marry a man like that? Anyway what can I do now? I must put an end to this confirmed bluff..."

One morning she said to the old woman, "Mother, today you will go look for firewood while I go to the plantation alone." The old woman said, "Yes, my daughter, we can share work that way." She had grown so used to the cheerful and friendly manner of the girl, thinking that she would not mind staying on as her daughter-in-law even after discovering that her son was deformed. Indeed she was already contemplating making the revelation to her.

And so each went her separate way. But as soon as the old woman vanished from the sight, the girl dashed back and stood at the door which had now become familiar ground for spying on the hunchback. She listened briefly as the boy sang mischievously inside the house. Then she stole a quick glance peeping through a side hole.

To her amazement, she saw that he was really a hunchback! Quite oblivious, the boy went on sweeping the floor and singing. The girl felt that she could no longer stand it. She broke into the house suddenly with the intention of beating up the mischievous fellow. But before she could get hold of him he dodged nimbly and slipped back into the drum. Nonetheless, the girl fuming with anger picked up the drum and smashed it on the floor. A pool of blood started oozing from the broken drum. The poor hunchback was dead!

Considering it appropriate revenge on the old woman the girl felt no remorse for the action she had taken. She rolled over the cold body of the hunchback as a lamp of anger swelled her throat. When the old woman returned home and found the mess she had done in the house she screamed at the top of her voice, "Ooh, oh, Uuuuuwe... uuuuuwe!" But it was all in vain. The deformed boy whom she had been ashamed of showing to the public was dead and gone forever! Yes, instead of feeling relieved by burden of shame she now felt great anguish for this loss. After killing the hunchback the girl also disappeared never to be seen again. The poor old woman remained there weeping and feeling quite forlorn.
