Murimi drove slowly down the Government road eager to attend the celebration. Everyone in the car was quite, thinking about the people who had sacrificed their lives so that Harry Thuku, the freedom fighter could be set free. Little Naiku was fascinated by Nyanjiru, the woman who had led men, woman and children in fighting for freedom, so long ago.

“Papa,” she called her father, “when we gain independence tonight and the white men are gone, who shall lead us then?”

“Ah, a good question, my child,” Murimi replied, “we shall have our own government. A government of Kenyans and Kenyans. We shall elect our own leaders.”

Naiku asked again, “Will ‘mamas’ lead us too?”

“No!” Njoroge shouted. “This will be a government of black men. Our government.”

“Why men?” Naiku cried angrily.

“When did you ever hear of a black ‘mama’ leading men?” Njoroge asked.

“Mama Nyanjiru was a leader of men,” Naikyua protested.

“You are right, Naiku,” said grandpa.

“Even in the forest where we fought the white man, woman fought just as bravely. General Muthoni was one of the bravest warriors I even met – braver than most men I know. Only a fool or a coward says that a woman cannot lead. Of course, they can and will lead.”

At that moment, a car with a white driver overtook them and Njoroge shouted, “Settlers, settlers go home!” Murimi was furious.

“Njoroge!” he said, how dare you misbehave like that? You will have to answer for it when we get home!”

“Does independence day make you lose your manners? That man is a grown up, older than even your father,” added grandpa.

“We did not fight the white men for independence so that our children can behave like them. You were never brought up to abuse people,” Murimi said angrily. Njoroge was quiet for a long time. He thought long and hard about his grandpa’s words. He was sorry for the way he had acted.

Read the passage below and answer questions 39 to 50

Many people all over the world still smoke although it is common knowledge that smoking is dangerous to health. This was nicotine found in the cigarettes has been proven to be addictive. Many young people get introduced to this habit through peer pressure, by aping their parents or the celebrities they watched on TV advertisements.

Today, smokers give various reasons for maintaining this habit. They say cigarettes are useful stimulates and that they give the smokers something to do with their hands. Perhaps the most important cause for the increase in smoking is provides shared experience among the peer group and this continues even after it becomes a settled habit at what point it actually becomes a habit difficult to shake off, is not possible to tell.

The aggressive campaign through advertisement and advocacy by manufactures has made things worse. Manufactures argue that smoking provides employment through tobacco farming, manufacturing industries and contributes directly to the economy through payment taxes. However, the government spends three times as much for the treatment of smoking related ailments and on rehabilitation of smokers.

The arguments against smoking are very valid. It can at times be very expensive for smokers and has no social advantage. The smoke from smokers is harmful and offensive to those around them (secondary smokers). It also interferes with teamwork since those who smoke keep excusing themselves to go and smoke. We know that tobacco stains the hands of smokers and makes the smokers have bad breath. In addition, it shortens one's breath, making it difficult for one to participate in the activities which demand a lot of energy, such as athletics. But these are minor objectives when we consider damage it can do to one's health. There is enough evidence that smoking causes bronchitis and heart disease, both of which can be fatal. It is therefore advisable for the young people to distance, both from this habit if they want to live a healthy life.
